Medical Instructions

Everyone included in your application, whether accompanying you or not, must undergo a medical examination with a physician on the list of designated doctors. If you are a divorced or separated parent, a minor child of whom you have joint or sole custody is considered your dependent child, even if he or she usually lives with the other parent and is not accompanying you to Canada.

All applicants aged 15 or over are required to have an HIV serology test. The test is also necessary for children who:

- have received blood or blood products
- have a known HIV-positive mother
- are potential adoptees

Instructions for this examination will be provided after your application has been assessed by a Canadian visa officer.

You will be responsible for the costs of the medical examination for all your family members.

At the time of the medical examination, you and all family members will be required to present individual passports as evidence of identity. If each of your family members does not already have an individual passport, you should apply to obtain them now.

Applicants may, at any time, request that medical instructions be issued, and may undergo an immigration medical examination, at their own risk. It is important to note, however, that undergoing an immigration medical examination does not guarantee that a permanent resident visa will be issued.

The permanent resident visa has the same validity period as the medical results, that is, 12 months from the date of the first examination or test.
