Mailing Your Application

Place all your documents in a sealed envelope and mail them to:

Immigration Section
Canadian Embassy
Via Zara 30
00198 Rome, Italy

Processing Steps

Once we receive your complete application, we will take the following steps:

Pre-selection evaluation. We will determine if the information and documents you provided are complete and if you meet the basic selection criteria. We will also decide whether a personal interview is necessary. If this is the case, we will inform you of the date, time and place of the interview. If an interview is not required, we will continue the processing of your application and when all statutory requirements, including medical and background checks, have been met by you and your family members, we will make the final decision.

All applicants, including your family members aged 19 years or over, must be available to attend the interview. We meet applicants in Athens, Rome, Tirana or Valetta. The services of an interpreter must be arranged in advance for any applicant or family member who will be interviewed and who is unable to communicate well in either English or French. Instructions for this will be provided in the letter of invitation to the interview.

Selection. We will then make the decision to accept or reject your application. This is normally done at the interview (or when the decision is made to waive the interview).

Final decision. The final decision is taken once we receive the results of the medical examinations and background checks, and all statutory requirements are met. The processing time between the selection and final decision can vary considerably depending on the following main factors: your speed in providing us with the information or documents requested, the need to undergo additional medical examinations, various internal verification procedures and the number of applications we have to process. When the application is ready for final decision, we will ask you to pay the Right of Permanent Residence Fee, if you have not already done so.

It is not necessary or useful to contact us to enquire about the status of your application. These calls or letters add to our workload and cause delays in the processing of all applications, including yours. However, you should write or send a fax if you have new information (for example, if your address, marital status or family composition changed).

Do not try to contact us by telephone as our files are confidential and their content cannot be discussed over the phone. In case of an emergency, you may leave a message on our voice message system by dialing: 39-06-44598 3937. You may also send a fax at 39-06-44598 2905 or send an e-mail message to: rome-im@dfait-maeci.gc.ca.

Appendix C

Medical Instructions

A medical examination is obligatory for you, your spouse or common-law partner and your dependent children, whether accompanying you to Canada or not. If you are a divorced or separated parent, a minor child of whom you have joint or sole custody is considered your dependent child, even if the child usually lives with the other parent and is not accompanying you to Canada.

Canadian immigration law defines as inadmissible to Canada a person who is suffering from any disease, disorder, disability or other health impairment as a result of the nature, severity or probable duration of which, in the opinion of a medical officer concurred with by at least one other medical officer, they are or are likely to be a danger to public health or to public safety, or their admission would cause or might reasonably be expected to cause excessive demands on health or social services. If your family member is inadmissible, you will be inadmissible also.

You will receive the forms and instructions for the medical examination, as well as the list of designated doctors in your country of residence, when a positive selection decision is made (usually at the time of the interview or when the decision is made to waive the interview). It is up to you to make an appointment with the doctor of your choice. You are also responsible for paying all the fees for the examination.

The permanent resident visa has the same validity as the medical results, that is, 12 months from the date of the first examination or test.
